Description of the way: we take the bus to the Pass Monte Croce and start with the way nr. 131 to the marshy meadows and the Alpe Nemes hut. Here you can enjoy the view at the Sextner Dolomites and the wide alp meadows. From the Alp Nemes you have to go eastwards on good way (nr. 146) to the end of a valley (Dechantmahd – hut of the pastors) and the saddle of the Monte Quaterna (2329m). One way goes left to the Obstanser See-hut and the Alta Via Carnica, but we follow the other way right to the peak. It's a easy way over rubble and some serpentines. Here you have a very nice lookout to the valley of the Comelico.

On trail no. 159 we go down to the Coltrondo Alp, practically circling the Knieberg/Mount Quaternà. Passing Lake/Lago dei Rospi, the path leads back to the Pass Monte Croce, where we either walk along the stream to Moos, or take the bus home.

Variant: you can extend the hike by descending from the summit via path 173.

Advices and suggestions: the Mount Quaternà is the most eastern of the peaks in the valley offers for that a special view down in the Piave valley. Also, here are many remains of World War I.

Summary: an easy way with a nice peak and beautiful views in the Comelico valley behind the Passo Monte Croce.
