Description of the way:

From the Berghotel we go by car or bus to the Innerfeldtal car park, where we follow the path marked 105 to the Dreischuster hut and continue to the crossroads at the end of the valley. From here path 10 + 11 lead uphill along the stream. In a flat area with a rest bench and a large boulder, path no. 9 branches off to the right to the “Lückelescharte”. Following this path after a few minutes, at a red-white-red marking without number, turn right into a clearing in the woods. We walk to the upper edge of the clearing, where behind a stone man serpentine leads you through a mountain pine field. Another stone man is at the end of a scree giant, indicating the hidden path. After leaving the dwarf pine field, the path winds its way through a wide grassy gully onto a saddle. The higher up we get, the more the markings fade, but nevertheless, climbing tracks lead us left up to the summit plateau of the mountain. The descent follows the same paths as the ascent.
